There was nothing in the staging of the piece to show that it had been produced under the direction of Julian Michaell, neither was there anything in the performance to commend it as an attraction for the Majestic Theatre. The audience indicated what it wants there by the way it applauded the orchestra's playing of "Babes in Toyland" music.

The best thing about "Bird Cesten" was that it didn't last long. And it probably won'ts.

Men's Winter Overcoats.

A glance at the group above will give you some idea of the many new models we present this season-rit is a sort of style review of men's winter overcoats-showing not all the different styles we present, but those that are to be most popular among well dressed men. From left to right there is the long, loose, double breasted great coat, made of light and dark colored cheviots and tweeds in brown and gray tones; also plain blue, black, brown and Oxford gray overcoatings.

Next is the aristocratic surtout which comes in meltons, velours and other rich materials; following the surfcut is the belt back tourist coat, which we show in large overplaid and herringbone effects. The last is the medium length box overcoat—only one of six models—these come in black, blue and oxford kerseys, velours, moules, meltons and friezes. They are all characterized by our shoulders, snug-fitting collars and lapels, and coat fronts that do not wrinkle. Here is
